

I would like to suggest that any new law passed for telemarketing and/or email (Spam) control should be limited to an opt-in list. I should not have to opt-out of anything that I never wanted in the first place. Opting out wastes my, and everyone else that has to do it, time. It is a waste of money and resources. Force the originators of the telemarketing call / email to request you opt-in - that way I can select the information that I would like presented to me in the format that I would like to receive it.
